Music Festival Offers Great Culture Events

A full schedule of cultural entertainment is on the calendar of the 12th annual Summer Music Festival, now in progress on the campus.

Future offerings in the festival series include performances by solo and ensemble artists, choral music, and two operas to be presented by the summer opera workshop.

Next concert in the series will be a performance by the famous Paganini string quartet, back at BYU for its fourth consecutive season of participation in the summer music festival series. The quartet will be joined Friday at 8:15 p.m. by Hary Schmidt, clarinetist, for a program of music by Vivaldi, Mozart and Brahms.

Tuesday at 11 a.m., Carl Fuerstner, nationally famous pianist, will present a special anniversary concert. He will play selections by composers in honor of special anniversaries. He will play the organ concerto in D Minor, transcribed by Bach-Stradal, by Vivaldi, in honor of a 75th anniversary. He will also play three selections by Bach, in honor of a 200th aniversary, and other selections honoring Bloch, Sibelius and Ravel.

Wednesday, the Paganini quartet will return for another evening concert. Highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the quartet in C Minor by Dr. Gerrit de Jong, dean of the BYU

Fieldhouse Underway

After many weeks, or years if you like, the Brigham Young University fieldhouse is finally under way. Preliminary construction for the huge structure began last week.

Dr. Wesley P. Lloyd, general chairman of the fund drive, said that the Provo City response has been more than satisfactory. Provo City Chairman Charles Sessions, made it clear that Provo has done its part and that it is up to the outlying districts of the state to give assistance.

According to the present plans, the fieldhouse will be completed in time for the 1950-51 Skyline Eight Conference season. It would be a fitting tribute for the conference champions to defend their title in a newly built fieldhouse.

Not only will the fieldhouse house the basketball team but will contain facilities for intramural basketball, squash, handball, boxing, wrestling, locker rooms, track and field facilities, offices, physical education classrooms, and many other items.

It is also believed that there will be adequate parking facilities for all basketball games regardless of size. There will be parking areas adjoining the building, at the top of the hill, currently used for football games, and in the field west of the stadium house.

Dr. Lloyd stated that BYU is an institution serving the entire church and that this is the first time in the 75 year history of the school that it has made a call to its friends throughout the world to come to its assistance.

As a lasting memorial to those who contributed to the fund a booklet will be prepared, containing the names of all donors. The booklet will be placed in the lobby of the fieldhouse.

NEW STUDENT BODY OFFICERS—Joseph Hapi, New Zealand, president; Fred Adams, Ogden, vice president; and Fern Stoddard, Bancroft, Ida., secretary.

Officers of Summer Session Map Activity Program

Student officers for the summer session were chosen in the opening student body assembly of last week. Elected president was Joe Hapi of New Zealand. Fred Adams of Ogden drew the Veep's chair, while acclamation gave the secretary's post to Fern Stoddard, Bancroft, Idaho.

The new officers are planning the activity program of the summer session.

Joe Hapi has been an active promoter of school spirit in his past quarters on the campus. He attended the Brigham Young University first in 1924. Returning again in 1948 he has become a familiar figure in campus life.

Fred Adams hails from Ogden Utah, and comes to his post with two summer seasons of experience at the presiding rostrum. He was student body president last summer session and the year before that held his present position.

Miss Stoddard, dark-haired beauty, is noted for her friendliness, and looks forward to her new adventure in politics.

Plans are now being formed in conference by the presiding trio for a summer full of activity and fun. Emphasis is being laid upon the fieldhouse drive. Students will be given the opportunity during the quarter to aid in contributing to this worthy project.

Wide Offering of Courses, Entertainment on Program

The 27th annual leadership week at Brigham Young University has attracted thousands to the many classes designed to aid church workers in their activities.

Courses open to registration were many and varied, including a dairy management course for dairy owners and managers of dairy welfare farms. This course was designed to give practical help in breeding, feeding, milking and disease control. This program is under the direction of Dr. Thomas L. Martin, retiring dean of the College of Applied Science.

Another interesting course is the fourth annual Family Life Institute, sponsored by the BYU Sociology department in cooperation with the Home Economics department. The special features of this course are the showing of pertinent films on the family and home every day from 1 to 2 p.m. in the Joseph Smith Auditorium.

Open to the bishoprics of the four Provo stakes is a Bishop's workshop, designed to help the members of the bishoprics of the wards in the solution of problems directly related to their work. Coordinator of the workshop is William E. Berrett, professor of religious education at BYU. Principal speaker during this course is LeGrand Richards, presiding bishop of the church.

Teacher Training Class

Under the chairmanship of Dorothy Candland, member of the teacher training committee of the Sunday School, a course in teacher training is being presented. This is designed for all who are interested in the training of teachers in the church organizations. H. Aldous Dixon, president of Weber College and chairman of the teacher training committee of the Sunday School, is the principal instructor.

A dancing workship, with courses in social dancing, floor shows and exhibition dancing, western dancing, social mixers, square dances and rounds is being sponsored by the Health, Physical Education, and Recreation department at Brigham Young University under the direction of Dr. Charles J. Hart. C. Vern Yates, professional dance instructor from Salt Lake City, is instructing in methods of the various dances.

Also being offered is a course in the use of audio-visual aids in the church. This course is designed to acquaint the participant with materials available in the field and assist in setting up audio-visual aid programs in the church. Clarence Tyndall, director, bureau audio-visual instruction, BYU, is directing the program.

Custodians Trained

To further complete the leadership week program, a course in custodial service in the field of building operation and maintenance has been presented under the co-sponsorship of Leland Perry, superintendent of buildings and grounds, Brigham Young University and William T. Brown, director, building operation and maintenance division, Los Angeles Trade-Technical College.

For stake genealogical workers is a 30 hour course designed to familiarize participants with the methods and latest procedures in genealogical work. Archibald F. Bennett, genealogical society, and Joseph Sudweeks, Brigham Young University, are heading this program.

Concluding the week's entertainment will be another concert by the Paganini string quartet beginning at 8:15 p.m. Friday in the Joseph Smith Auditorium.

With lots of play and lots of work available, the 27th annual leadership week at Brigham Young University should be another very successful program.

Jensen Welcomes Summer Students Back To University

Greetings to Summer
School Students:

In behalf of the University it is a real pleasure to welcome all students to our Summer Quarter. The summer season is an excellent time for continuing one's educational program. It affords a splendid opportunity for combining hard work with proper enjoyment.

The institution has provided a fine faculty, numerous courses of study, good library and laboratory facilities, splendid artistic program, and various types of wholesale recreational enjoyment. The combination of all these factors forms a rich environment which is conducive to real educational achievement. We feel sure that your residence on the campus this summer will be an enjoyable and profitable experience.

More Help Needed···

With the new science building rapidly coming to completion, the thoughts of all students and alumni are turning more and more to the new Fieldhouse being constructed near the Stadium. This structure is costing the Church and University close to a million dollars. Half of this money will be provided by the Church itself. It is up to the University to raise the other half. This is not an easy job, but it is a job that requires the help of everyone who is or was a student of the Brigham Young University as well as many friends of the University.

The campaign to raise the Universities share of this money has been and is going on in many different ways. Individuals are being asked to donate as much money as they can; parties and dances have been held to raise money; a basketball team composed of BYU all-stars is now touring Utah and Idaho playing a team composed of former Utah and Utah State stars to raise money for the fieldhouse; students enrolled during spring quarter donated money as did the faculty. Business men and other are being asked to give to this great cause.

As summer students we too can help. We can make our donations at the treasurers office to help pay for the cost of giving BYU another great building on Campus to serve student needs.

This building will not only provide a basketball floor with adequate seating facilities, but it will give every student in school a place to exercise and to build himself up physically. Many are the uses the building will provide and as summer students we will benefit as much as anyone from those added facilities.

It is up to us to do our share We must go to the treasurer's office and give our dollars to help fill the gap that is in the way of making this the greatest athletic plant in the state.

Registration Problems ···

Those who registered last Monday for the Summer Quarter or the six weeks term found ample evidence that the fame of BYU is spreading. The long lines prove that LDS people are surely education conscious. The graduate schools line seemed to be the longest as it wound around and around the Smith ballroom.

With this growth some changes in registration procedure might be worked out. Surely there is some way of avoiding long lines and climbing up and down steps. At least, the ends of lines might be labeled so that students might know which one to follow.

The solution might be in having additional help or in registering part of the summer school student body at different hours according to the alphabet.

One improvement could easily be made by shifting the first part of registration from the Maeser Building to the library. This would eliminate the long lines up and down the steps. If necessary, there might be a line on the first floor of the Maeser to pay fees but it is difficult to understand why it was necessary to go all the way to the top floor.

BYU is suffering growing pains and students expect some inconvenience as a result. However, it is to be hoped that the administration, which has traditionally tried to serve the best interests of the students, will find some solution to this problem.

The Y Spirit ···

Leadership Week, with its many activities, will close Saturday. This is a week of training for church activity. Many of you in attendance at Brigham Young University for the first time this week may have also caught the spirit of the "Y."

This is the friendly school where in the Spirit of the Gospel an honest effort has made you welcome. While regular students come into contact with this spirit this week has been particularly inspirational with the presence and talks of church leaders.

Little Man On Campus by Bibler

More Dorm Troubles ...

Dear Editor:

Years ago when the Holy land was invaded or when people found something they didn't like, they went on crusades. Today, when we are unhappy about something, we are often told that unto each life some rain must fall.

Perhaps the things that annoy me may be just petty, but they do annoy. Therefore this, I hope, will be the beginning of a Crusade against them, if others feel the same way.

BYU has a beautiful campus and some beautiful buildings. Last Monday I spent a whole day viewing them, both inside and out. But my weary little footsies kept protesting every step after the first six hours. But the time I had finished registering I completely collapsed.

More lines to get some food to revive spirit and mind and then off to the dorm to get settled. Or so I thought. This room is still piled high with boxes and suitcases. There just isn't room enough to breathe. Why, oh why are rooms ever planned with narrow small closets and room for only one small chest of drawers? Maybe midgets are supposed to go to the "Y" and not grown up people. And they tell me that four people sometimes have occupied one of these cubbyholes. An ant just crawled in the window and my roommate had to move out into the hall so I could finish this.

Sincerely,

(Name withheld — Ed.)

Good Will Tour???...

Cougar Hoopsters Trample Brazilian Foes with ease

by Dan Clay

The Brigham Young University basketball team, summer edition, opened their South American tour two weeks ago by trouncing the Syrian club, co-sponsors of the trip, 57-28 at Sao Paulo, Brazil. The Cougars, who will play twelve games during their visit, have won all three games played to date by wide margins. The Cats defeated the Palmeidas club 65-38 and the Santos All-stars 82-20.

In the first half of the opening game the Cougars found the going mightly tough, largely because of old Olympic rules and a Brazilian ball. The lead shifted rather slowly through the first half resulting in a 20-20 deadlock at halftime. Minson turned his ankle in the first half and retired from the fray.

In the second half a regulation ball was used and the Cougars opened up. Mel Hutchins led the BYU scoring parade with 11 points,, Roland Minson was second with 10 and Jerry Romney copped nine.

In the second tilt also played at Sao Paulo, the Cougars routed their other co-sponsors, the Palmeidas club 68-38. Not hampered by having to use the South American ball, BYU gave the 3000 fans a spectacular display of shooting by hitting 50 per cent of their shots, 29 for 58. The Cats got off to a quick lead and held a 30-13 halftime advantage. In the second half alone they hit an amazing 17 for 27.

Sophomore flash, Joe Ritchie, was high man for the night as he garnered 19 points. Joe was hot from the corner and hit well from behind screens. Mel Hutchins was second high with 16 and played a terrific floor game. When the pair left the game they received a five minute ovation from the crowd.

Last Saturday night was Roland Minson night as Watts' boys completely overwhelmed the Santos All-stars 82-20 at Sao Paulo. Minnie ran up a total of 35 points for the nights activities.

So terrific were the Cougars that the All-stars were able to notch only field goal during the entire first half. During the first half the game became so one sided that the Brazilian fans were cheering for Provo lads. The Cats were so hot they racked up 15 points before the All-stars could tally.

Minson's 35 points consisted of 15 field goals and five fouls. He average better than a point a minute as he left the game with seven minutes remaining. Jerry Romney followed Minson in scoring with 12 markers.

Mel Hutchins and Leon Heaps were sidelined due to minor ailments.

EYES OF TEXAS — Dick Moody leads Cougars in net tounrament.

Cat Net Men Off to Austin

Four members of Brigham Young University's conference tennis champs are currently competing in the NCAA tournament at Austin, Texas. The four competing players are: Dick Moody, Mesa, Arizona; Dick Brower, Salt Lake City; Lamar Rawling and Bob Kirkpatrick, both of Provo.

All four entries from the Skyline Six conference, Dick Brower, Dick Moody, Bob Kirkpatrick and Lamar Rawlings, all from BYU were elininated from singles competition in the NCAA tournament at Austin on Monday.

Moody, conference singles champ, was defeated by Wallace Mac Donald of California, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2. Dick Brower was defeated by Leonard Brose of Michigan State 6-2, 6-1.

Gene Buwick of Princeton eliminated Lamar Rawlings 6-2, 6-2, and Bob Kirkpatrick bowed out to Sonny Bradley of the University of Illinois.

Ex-Y Cagers Tour State For Fieldhouse

While the Brigham Young University basketball team mops up in South America the Cougar Alumni quintet is showing well against the Utah All-stars, alumni members from Utah and Utah State.

At present these two teams are bringing big-time basketball to different parts of Utah. The purpose of the tour is to raise funds for the fieldhouse. Several games have been played and it appears that the two clubs are very near equal.

Probably the biggest names in Utah basketball history dot the line ups of the teams. For the All-stars, All-Americans Vern Gardner and Arnie Ferrin head the roster which includes Kenny Berrett and Rollo Johnson of Utah State and Dick Smuin and Walt Misaka of Utah.

Heading the BYU aggregation are Brady Walker and Joe Nelson. Besides these two stars are De Ray Fullmer, Jack Whipple, Randy Clark, Clark Greenhalgh, and Rolfe Peterson.

The series is not a you-win-one we-win-one affair as some people might think but is strictly on the level. During the first few games quite a rivalry has arisen.

The first game, played at Provo high, was of epic proportions with a story book finish. The ex-Cougars edged the Stars 65-63. It was strictly a Joe Nelson show as the former BYU star put on one of his most brilliant exhibitions. Joe had 33 points.
